

The Leaking Truth

38th Post - How do you get your "Respect"?

March 03, 2025

The square root of all evil, the lust for power, greed and my addition the aspect of popularity which depends on what form of respect you choose. In my eyes there's two forms of respect, fear based that's instilled into the masses for fear something bad could happen to them or there's the good healthy respect that's hard earned over time through trust and honesty and integrity. Personally, I like the idea better for the good healthy respect because it feels better mentally knowing you were genuine and sincere and the respect was rightfully earned the RIGHT way the first time. We all know people that are like this from coworkers to higher ups in government but popularity has its roots in "evil" remember? For some I think it's difficult for certain types of personalities to grasp the better of the two forms of respect, the good kind that takes longer is an uphill climb and not as instant as fear based can be. I think fear-based respect people are similar to a junkie, wanting to get their fix mentally and have that "power" over others quickly, also I think it's a sign of a weak personality and character. Fear based also leads to resentment from the masses and honestly puts a target on your back for someone to come along and when the time is right backstab you good!

Staying humble knowing the facets of the square root of all evil and maintaining a balance of what your power is, your finances and how your viewed by popularity and respect views. So reader I mentally challenge you to adopt my views on respect and strive for the better of the two forms in your daily life, it's a mental exercise we all could benefit from and use.

Now lets dive into respect and human life, honestly I don't believe in harming others no matter how strongly you feel about that person and what you think you might know about them. Chances are you could be easily misled to believe false information which ties back to my previous post where are you getting your information from? Deep fake is honestly the new AI enemy we are facing, getting people to do things that look real but really are total fakes, it's a scary world we are going into! Then there's the dark web, I'm led to believe there are sites out there where you can people watch?! That's a total violation of privacy is it not? Where's your respect for the individual being spied upon for whatever sick pleasure you get from viewing these sites?! More importantly, are you getting audio that's accurate?

Forgiveness is another aspect of respect, those who can forgive will earn respect in the long run should you play your cards right! Holding grudges over someone is a mental waste of energy and time no matter what your motive is here, people can move on from situations with time and the target for your forgiveness can also learn from mistakes, hey we are all human here lets not forget that! Someone who can forgive is mentally stronger in my eyes and makes for better leadership and your popularity aspect, if you haven't tried it DO IT and see how you feel, should feel good if your doing it right?! Forgiveness is a powerful tool that I feel is lacking in this world and we need more of it to be honest, people are gunna be people lets not kid ourselves and people do make mistakes but they can learn from them too! So for example I forgive you for reading junk information on the internet and believing it to be true, it's not your fault you got led down a rabbit hole but hey at least you can respect me just a tad for giving you the honest truth straight up, no chaser is how Drill SGT Body put it one way..

Another aspect of good respect is people will actually want to do things for you out of the good in the goodness in their hearts because you earned that much from them, having that kind of respect feels rewarding. Fear-based respect you only have people doing things for you because they feel if they don't do something for you they might get hurt in the process, that's just wrong psychologically and twisted and demented, sign of a truely weak person who struggles in other areas most likely as well because they don't understand what good respect looks like. It takes time and effort to earn that good respect, all good things come with time is something people say and it's true! But, once you earn that good respect it's harder to take it away. Fear-based respect can dissolve in a micro-second given the opportunity to exploit the individual for the asshat that they are especially if you can embarrass them whereas good respect if people see that your trying your best and you fail at something you can be forgiven which we just talked about, that's a social strength you get with good respect from your peers that act of forgivness but don't rely on it! You still have to be a good person with good respect and balance the equation of the square root of evil, find that zen place of harmony and balance within yourself. Good luck!

I do need to put a warning, this blog has been archived on archive.fo and I don't know if they can be fully trusted with a backup of this blog yet, from what I know right now it's highly questionable if the site is functioning as designed too. Someone's lust for power could be taking hold here and wanting to skew the truth so tread wisely my readers.. It's really 50/50 if archive.fo is legit or not but hey at least I tried to keep the truth going with a backup, so there was an attempt at least! I get a feeling this blog is a massive target right now for the desire to spread misinformation so at the least disable JavaScript to prevent any .js files from modifying my basic HTML body code.

And in other news! CFIUS from the Department of Treasury has a geographical location tool online you can use to lookup your property to see if your area has been gerrymandered at all! I found a really odd looking map to my home with the city of Marysville snaking it's way up to my driveway... So I highly encourage you to go and lookup your address and check the map to see if your impacted in any way! Also my neighbors property is sliced into Snohomish County and Marysville, soooo what does that mean, can CIFUS come take a chunk of his land because they gerrymandered it?! Just keeping an eye out for you readers because it's something little you might not know about and you might wanna be an informed citizen about this!

Thanks for Reading
